Editor’s Note

Dear readers,

We are so happy and enthusiastic about presenting the 7th Issue of Volume Third (Volume 3 Issue 7 "July 2018"). It is not an easy task to maintain and preserve academic publishing. Not finding an academic article that worth publishing and the lack of financial support are the two major obstacles in publishing academic journals. Our Organization Director kindly provides us with support of any nature, first and foremost, by sparing no expense on financial support. Moreover, the considerable improvement both in terms of quality and quantity of the articles submitted to our journal for evaluation encourages us to think positively about the future of our journal. Therewithal, since we have already met the quota for the next issue evidently shows that we are on the right track.

Although we intend to include a higher number of academic articles in the next issues of our journal, we only allow for maximum 40 articles in each issue in order not to digress from journal format or exhaust our dear readers. The excess of articles submitted to our journal drag us to a happy weariness. We need to acknowledge that there are many articles that could not be published in this issue although they have been evaluated and approved by our referees. The articles that are approved but not published in the current issue are put in queue for publication based on their date of submission.

I would like to thank the esteemed academicians and researchers who submitted articles, book reviews; and the referees who kindly devoted their valuable time for reviewing the submitted works. I also would like to extend my gratitude to the members of the Advisory Board and of the Publication Board; as well as the staff who contributed to our journal. With the hope to meet again in the next issue of the International Journal of Social Science and Economic Research, I hereby present my deepest respect to you all.
